

Contact Methods

It is ok to contact a potential employer this way:

- * By calling them at their place of business (usually the same location where you had the interview)
- * By leaving them a voicemail or message at their place of business
- * By emailing them at their business email address

It is NOT ok to contact a potential employer this way

- * By going to their place of business to ask them in person
- * By calling them on their home phone
- * By texting them
- * By Facebooking them (or contacting them through any other social networking site)